

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing to express my extreme concern and dismay at what appears to be the commission's abandonment of the Part 15 regulations on behalf of SAVI at the expense of the Amateur Radio Service.

As President Bush (and many Presidents before him) has acknowledged, the Amateur Radio Service is a vital component of the emergency services and homeland defense infrastructure of this country.

The rules-change requested by SAVI and other "RFID" vendors would create serious and irreparable interference problems for the Amateur Radio Service which could severely impact this services' ability to assist Federal, State and Local governments in emergencies and other threat situations.

In this era where where our country is in a heightened state of alert and awareness to threats faced by our country it would be unconscionable to sacrifice the ability of the Amateur Radio Service to continue its almost 100 year tradition of service to our country to serve a narrow commercial interest whose needs may be easily and cost-effectively met in a different portion of the RF spectrum.

respectfully submitted,
David HM Spector
